In this conversation, Anéeka of Temmer explains what the planet Saturn is like (its atmosphere and biodiversity) and what races are found there, as well as being a headquarters of the Federation of United Planets.

"This information is provided by extraterrestrial persons, women and men from the Taygeta star in the Pleiades cluster, through a written contact with us."

CONVERSATION WITH ANÉEKA OF TEMMER

Cristina.- You have commented that The Viera is the headquarters of the local or regional Council of the Federation here. I mean, would it be like the Earth Council, those who officially represent humans?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Yes. That is exactly their role here and they do not stand out as useful. This is our point and problem exactly.

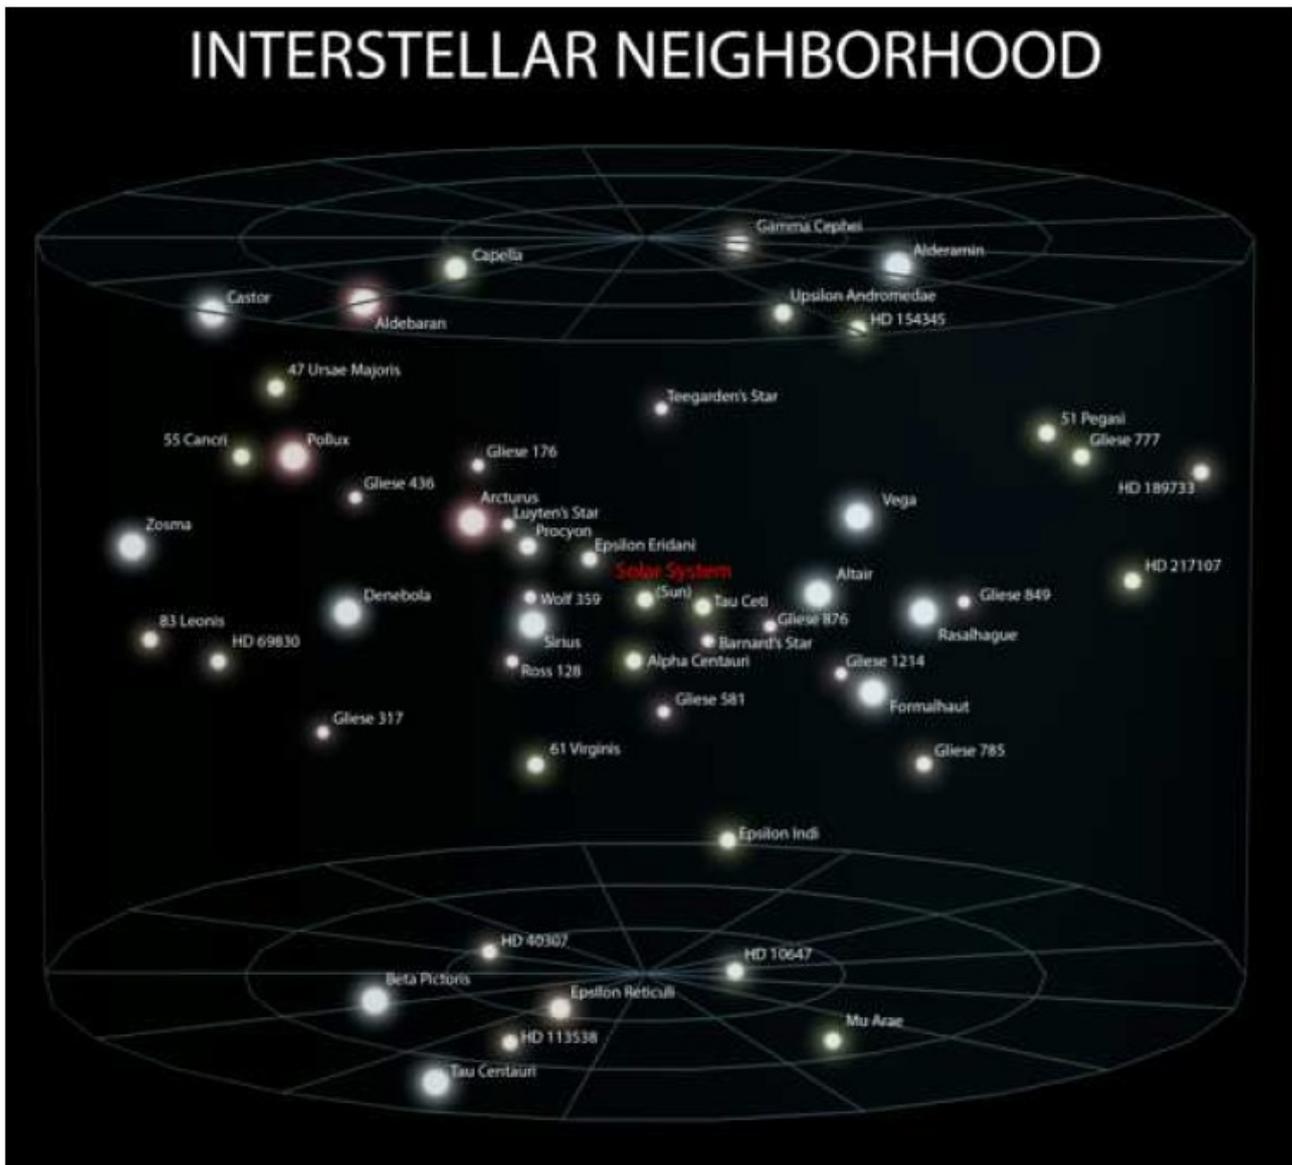

Estel·la.- And who supervises or represents them?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Supposedly, the Federation of Saturn, which are impossible to find.

Estel·la.- And who supervises those of Saturn?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Supposedly another Federation Council of a group of stars from this sector of the galaxy. Even harder to find. I emphasize that I am not talking about the Federation in progressively higher densities, I am talking about people in the same density as those of the Viera. I'm only talking about politicians with more power, not densities. It is true that in densities there is also a Federation that supervises downwards, but it is more difficult to access because it is not in your reality or world. They obviously have mechanisms so that they cannot be reached directly.

Estel·la.- Don't you know in which constellation or solar system they are found?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Yes. But it is impossible for me to share it at this time. Not because of secrecy but because of the impossibility of description. What happens is that the concept of constellations differs in space, being that only some such as Taurus, Pleiades, and Orion among a few others, coincide with those known on Earth. This is because the constellations as you know them are viewed and assembled from Earth's point of view. The point of view here is more directly related to star map sectors, but I have no common reference. Just seeing it from the explainable perspective: It is the set of local stars closest to your Sun 13 that would include: Alpha Centauri, triple system and a few others. I would need a chart to explain it more or less.

Estel·la.- Why are those of Saturn impossible to find?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Because nobody knows who they are or where they are. They only give orders from their point above and there is no one to go to see or write to. This not only happens to us, but also to the rest of the races here in our neighbourhood, such as those of the Viera.

Estel-la.- Have you tried going to Saturn in person?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Yes and nobody knows anything. It is a huge traffic zone with large biosphere ships of many races. These are called many times on Earth 'the Sphere Alliance'. Going to Saturn is like going to Los Angeles in California, good luck finding someone who doesn't want to be found there.

Cristina.- And the fact that you can't go to see them or speak to them directly, isn't that a negative aspect of this structure?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Undoubtedly. This is the point at which it can most openly be seen that the system is broken. It becomes pyramidal and not holographic.

Cristina.- How bad then. And the Sphere Alliance, what role does it play in all this?

Anéeka of Temmer.- It's more Federation. Let's say that the Sphere Alliance is a group like the Andromeda council or the Alcione council would be. Officially independent. However, they form the Federation as well. The Federation being such a large body that it collapses under its own weight. That's the problem. It has become worse than gigantic and therefore unmanageable and useless.

Cristina.- And do you know which races are on Saturn?

Anéeka of Temmer.- The same as here. The best known. The usual. Dominated by: Andromedans, Arcturians, and Sirians. Although I clarify that Pleiadians do not.

Estel-la.- It seems incredible to me that the Federation of Saturn hides or camouflages itself among the other races present there. That fact alone would have to remove them from their post. What kind of representation can there be from someone you cannot access?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Yes. However, note that to remove them from their position you must first know who they are, and that is what they avoid with anonymity. Another point that stands out here is that it is the same structure of the super elite of the Earth. Dark government that only works with puppets of many levels, but you can never see who has real power since Soros, Gates, Rockefeller, Rothschild and others are only fronts for characters behind them with more power.

Here it is the same with the Federation, exactly the same. That is why we insist that it is a reflection of what happens on Earth. Only orders with validation codes arrive. It does not say who it is. Just something like: "The honorable High Council Saturn dictates that they must withdraw from the vicinity of Earth immediately. Alpha-whiskey Bravo certification 928167- 675172. " And that's it. There is no one here with whom to respond or whom to appeal anything to.

Cristina.- Wow, how strong! And what races make up the Sphere Alliance?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Andromedans, Arcturians, Korendians, Devonians and Avians. (Cedet-Cerez Aviar)

Cristina.- Excuse me Anéeka. Avians, are they kind of birds?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Yes. Basically the ones that Corey Goode talks about.

Estel·la.- And what do the Andromedans or those from The Viera gain from becoming blind to this problem?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Nothing. If you talk to them, since they are on the same level here, they will be very empathetic and concerned. They will also say that they don't see what else they can do. They accept that there is a problem, but they don't know how to proceed. They do not claim to be blind to the problem, they claim that their hands are tied. And also, speaking of them, what complicates everything more is that each and every race will have their own ideas depending on their concepts and understanding as a race, the Andromedans being, for example, very dismayed by karma.

Estel·la.- So, what is the problem, according to them, exactly? Because I think, they themselves are tying those hands. If you really want to solve a problem, but have no one to deal with, then have them come to you. It begins to act differently with the Earth and that they have to come out of the shadows, if those of Saturn really want to intervene.

Anéeka of Temmer.- The problem is that, according to them, it should be solved by humans, and not by them. "The problem" is that Yázhi agrees with this. But not as in that humans must ... as a duty, something imposed by authority, but according to Yázhi: "The problem can only be solved from the human level, from within the Earth, as human beings and not from outside." She says it is the only way. "It is not because other races do not want to do anything, but that they cannot do anything and only humans can."

Estel·la.- I understand what Yázhi says, but we are seeing that the problem is also outside.

Cristina.- The problem is everywhere. And where is the base of Saturn located, on the planet or on some moons? Or is the position also unknown? It was 5D low density right?

Anéeka of Temmer.- We believe that it is among the countless bases that exist throughout that area. Not on Saturn itself, but the bases are on the Moons such as: Mimas, Titan, Enceladus, Dione, Tethys. And in the rings, mainly. This is why they like Saturn so much. Also, countless ships of all sizes in Saturnian orbit all the time.

Cristina.- And what are these bases like? What structures do they have?

Anéeka of Temmer.- The bases are mostly 90% underground. They are tunnelled. They use asteroids and large rocks in the rings and hollow them out leaving the outer shield structure. As for large bases on moons, they are also mostly underground with entrances in craters and on mountain slopes. As for the surface installations, spider-like structures dominate with a dome in the center and tubes that go out in different directions and go underground.

Cristina.- And on the planet Saturn, don't you have anything? Is there no one there?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Saturn as a planet is too dense and at the same time gaseous. Without a defined surface. So, only animal beings adapted to extreme environments live there. For most races of the Federation it is impractical to use Saturn itself. What makes Saturn so interesting are its rings. It is a mostly rock structure that can be used for many things. Forming a very large wealth of places to establish bases in them. Mining of resources, minerals and metals for industry.

Cristina.- What kind of animals are there?

Anéeka of Temmer.- Mostly animals that spend their entire lives floating. With the appearance of giant jellyfish. Also parasites that live in jellyfish using them for support. There is no development of advanced civilization there, it is the animal kingdom. They are like balloon beings or airship beings. They look like this image and so huge. Although they are of various sizes. I understand that they do end up measuring like the Hindenburg or the Goodyear blimp.

Cristina.- How curious these animals are floating there. I imagine they are like fish in the water?

Anéeka of Temmer.- It could be, yes. That is, they float in the atmosphere of Saturn in a habitable zone for them. Where they cannot go higher, because they would extend too much. Nor lower because the atmospheric pressure of Saturn would crush them.

Estel·la.- And what do they feed on?

Anéeka of Temmer.- From what I understand, other beings in a floating ecosystem. Smaller beings like what krill would be like for whales. There are clouds of living organisms in the atmosphere and larger beings pass by. And the little ones, who form these clouds, also feed on smaller ones.

Cristina.- And is there no vegetable kingdom?

Anéeka of Temmer.- There must be. Always floating in different atmospheric strata. Even though there is no surface, the pressure is so high that it exceeds the rock. But this is not achieved suddenly, but little by little, increasing the atmospheric pressure until it reaches solidity.
